Interesting Review of Last Year's Trade in Bituminous and Anthracite,

YEAR OF NOTABLE FLUCTUATIONS

Its End Saw Both Branches of the Coal Trade Depressed, but the Advantage Was Resting with An-

Since it is in a measure competitive against anthracite, the trade in bituminons coal, as reviewed for 1893, presents some points of reminiscential interest in this connection. We condense what follows from the Engineering and Mining Journal: "Bituminous coal of all descriptions during the first five months of 1893 was in a strong, healthy position, and in January, February and March demand was active, operators and large shippers being at times unable to fill orders promptly. Coalcarrying roads were taxed to their full capacity. In February the severe weather rendered it difficult for shippers to supply fuel to regular cus-tomers, and all new business was ac-cepted only contingent on ability to fill. Toward the end of March the supply of bituminous coal was over-abundant. The big strike in the Hocking Valley in Obio in May caused little embarrassment in the market, as supplies were ample, shippers taking liberal quantities before the miners went out. The opening of many new mines in the bituminous coalfields of Indiana the Mingo Coal began to affect the tonnage of the block coal men and prices weakened.

The closing of the steel mills at Joliet threw a large quantity of the cheaper grades of coal on this market, causing a drop in prices. Other plants and factories shut down, and coal was offered at cost of mining plus the freight in order to keep the mines going at least a part of the time. Operators exercised the usual caution in credits, so that while demand had falled off and prices were demoralized there were few fail-ures to quote. The withdrawal of many passenger trains at the close of the Columbian exposition was also a factor in decreasing the tonnage, which was not offset by any increase in freight traffic after the close of navigation. The year closed with a congested market for all kinds of bitumiuous coal, and prices are completely demoralized.

The same authority presents an interesting review of the trade in anthra-In this trade the year opened well, with a good volume of small orders. Rumors of a break in the combination had a weakening effect in February. The heavy surplus of that month caused much inconvenience through inability to get supplies for-warded to the country. Bituminous coal was so short that many steam plants were obliged to use anthracite. March maintained its old prestige as a good coal selling month in the several branches, and stocks steadily decreased notwithstanding large receipts. About 15 and coal began coming forward by lake. The feeling of a possibility of an advance in June somewhat stimulated advance in June somewhat stimulated buyers. May was unusually cold and trade active for small lots. Scarcity of cars at mines enabled shippers to move a good tonnage of dock coal. Pea coal was scarce and in good demand. The advance of 25 cents in June was severely criticized. Still a good deal of coal changed hands at May givening with sattlement to ha May circular with settlement to be made in October. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE firm of L. A. Finch & Company, having sold their entire plant business and good will to the Finch Mannfacturing Company, have this day. December 30th, 1893 gone out of business. All persons having claims against the retiring firm are requesed to present thom on Mr. Irving A. Finch, through whose hands all such payments and all collections will be made.

IAN A 1992 OF ANY COLORS OF THAT THE considerably. Another advance of 25c. July 1 only served to make matters worse. For a short time the string gent orders from producers east had its effect, but prices soon drifted back to the old figures. The separation of the Lebigh and Reading interests in August caused a further weakening in prices, which, coupled with the inprices, which, coupled with the increasing depression, added greatly to the duliness in the market. Careful estimates disclosed the fact that up to the end of August the tonnage sold was fully 50 per cent, less than for the corresponding month in 1892. Through-out September and October country dealers continued their conservative buying. At the close of navigation the docks and yards became glutted with coal, and many loaded vessels were tied up at the various docks.

The annual election of officers of the Pittsburg, Marion and Chicago Railway company was held at Beaver Mon day. An important matter to the company was the transferring of the option on leases on 2,000 acres of cannel and Letters testamentary upon the above named state having been granted to the undersigned all persons having claims or demands against the said estate will present them for payment, and those indebted, thereto will please make immediate payment to the creatures herein after named, or any of them.

On leases on 2,000 acres of cannel and bituminous coal land near Negley, O, on the line of this railroad, known as the Billingsly, Dyke and Rogers tracts, to a New York syndicate of capitalists by I. F. Mansfield and C. H. Smith. The former has been for years interested in the cannel coal mines, at Cannelton. The company purchasing the options on the leases, will begin extensive operations at once.

The sales agents on Monday, Nov.27, voted to restrict the December output to 2,500,000 tons, and took steps to force the reduction. The official fig-ures for the month will not be out for two weeks, but in the four weeks ended Dec. 30 production was 3,224,000 tons, or over 700,000 tons more than the amount agreed upon. For the year, with the reduced consumption, the output will probably prove to be nearly 1,200,000 tons greater than in 1892. This moves the Philadelphia Stock holder to ask: How can the coal trade continue to show such large earnings for three companies when all agree-ments are violated and the laws of trade ignored by this over production? The explanation is that the stock carried over unsold must be simply enor-mous, but the railroads have carried the coal to storage points and are credited with earning money just as though the coal was sold. In no other business does this seeming disregard of the laws of trade seem to pay.

James B. Oliver, the Pittsburg iron king, says there is not a mill in the country operating in full. "Everything," he says, "seems to depend on the Wilson bill. If it is not passed trade will no doubt be brisk, as stocks the week ended Jan. 6 showing an increase over the corresponding period in 1893 of 6,699 tons. It is to be noted, however, that this increase came wholly from the Cumberland districts, the tonnage originating on the line having decreased about 50 per cent. It is believed, on the other hand, that there will be a change in these losses shortly, and that the tonnage of Broad Top coal will materially increase.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The volume of business at the Stock exchange showed a material falling off today and speculation presented few features of interest, al-though the movements were somewhat though the movements were somewhat erratic early in the day, the tendency of prices in the main was upwards, the buils having taken steps to frighten the shorts into covering. The result was an advance of 34 to 25 per cent. The industrials were again conspicuous and really lead the market. The notable gains were: Sugar 25. Chicago Gas 134. Rock Island 135.
